

Linwood Nelson

The Coalition for Public Safety Training in Schools, Inc.

Mr. Nelson is the owner and operator of Linnel Driving School in Prince George's County. He started the firm in 1992 and hold multiple certifications in the field.

From 1981 to 1987 he started a corporate career by working with Xerox Corporation in the District of Columbia as District Office Major Accounts Manager. There he sold millions of dollars of high end print shop equipment, desk top computers, large sophisticated copiers, laser printers and information system devices such as ethernet networks.

From 1987 to 1992, he started and ran a successful Minority Business named AC*JAN Group Associates and became one of Xerox's first African American dealerships selling products and services throughout the Washington Metropolitan area. He attended Howard University earning a degree in Business Administration in 1981.