

Humberto Berrio

Humberto Fabio Berrio, Jr. is an entrepreneur, clean energy advocate, and business development professional with more than 15 years of experience in sales leadership, renewable energy, roofing, and commercial energy efficiency. As a first-generation American born to Colombian immigrant parents, Humberto has built his career around creating opportunities for others while helping businesses and consumers improve their financial well-being through sustainable energy solutions.

Humberto is the owner of a solar energy consulting business that is dedicated to educating consumers about solar power and helping families and businesses reduce their energy costs. He also works as a Commercial Energy Efficiency Specialist, assisting organizations of all sizes in implementing utility-funded energy efficiency retrofits that lower operating expenses and reduce environmental impact. In addition, he remains active in the roofing industry, helping homeowners navigate roof replacement and restoration projects.

Humberto's professional and community efforts are concentrated primarily in Prince George's County, a community he has come to deeply appreciate for its diversity, entrepreneurial spirit, and strong representation of minority-owned businesses.

Humberto is especially passionate about mentoring underprivileged and underrepresented youth. As a small business owner and entrepreneur, he is committed to sharing his experiences with young people, encouraging them to pursue careers in business, skilled trades, renewable energy, and entrepreneurship. He believes that exposure to positive role models, career pathways, and practical life skills can empower the next generation to achieve lasting success.

As a member of the Board of Directors for the Coalition for Public Safety Training in Schools, Inc., Humberto is committed to supporting programs that expand educational opportunities, promote workforce development, and prepare students to become productive leaders within their communities.
